CLEAR GRIT.

About thirty years ago said Judge P——-, I stepped into a book store in Cincinnati in search of some books that I wanted. While there a little ragged boy not over twelve years of age, came in and inquired for a geography.

'Plenty of them,' was the salesman's reply.

'How much do they cost ?'

'One dollar my lad.'

'I did not know they were so much.'

He turned to go out, and even opened the door, but closed it again, and came back.

'I have got sixty-one cents," said he ; 'could you let me have a geography, and wait a little while for the rest of the money ?'

How eagerly his bright eyes looked for an answer, and how he seemed to shrink within his ragged clothes, when the man, not very kindly, told him he could not. The disappointed little fellow looked up to me, with a very poor attempt to smile, and left the store. I followed him, and overtook him.

'And what now ?' I asked.

'Try another place, sir.'

'Shall I go, too, and see how you succeed ?'

'O yes, if you like," said he in surprise.

Four different stores I entered with him, and each time he was refused.

'Will you try again ?' I asked.

'Yes, sir ; I shall try them all, or I should not know whether I could get one.'

We entered the fifth store and the little fellow walked up manfully, and told the gentleman just what he wanted and how much he had.

'You want the book very much ?' said the proprietor.

'Yes, very much.'

'Why do you want it so very much ?'

'To study, sir. I can't go to school, but I study when I can at home. All the boys have got one and they will get ahead of me. Besides, my father was a sailor, and I want to learn of the place where he used to go.'

'Does he go to these places now ?' asked the proprietor.

'He is dead, said the boy, softly ; then he added after awhile, 'I am going to be a sailor, too.'

'Are you, though ?' said the gentleman, raising his eyebrow curiously.

'Yes, sir, if I live.'

'Well, my lad, I will tell you what I will do ; I will let you have a new geography, and you may pay the remainder of the money when you can or I will let you have one that is not quite new for fifty cents.'

'Are the leaves all in it, and just like the other, only not new ?'

'Yes, just like the new ones.'

'It will do just as well, then, and I will have eleven cents left toward buying some other book. I am glad they did not let me have one at any of the other places.'

The bookseller looked up inquiringly, and I told what I had seen of the little fellow. He was much pleased, and when he brought the book along, I saw a nice new pencil, and some clean white paper in it.

'A present, my lad, for your perseverance. Always have courage like that and you will make your mark,' said the bookseller.

'Thank you sir ; you are very good.'

'What is your name ?'

'William Havely.'

'Do you want any more books ?' I now asked him.

'More than I can ever get, he replied, glancing at the books that filled the shelves.

I gave him a bank note. 'It will buy some for you,' I said.

Tears of joy came to his eyes.

'Can I buy what I want with it ?'

'Yes, my lad, anything.'

'Then I will buy a book for mother,' said he. I thank you very much, and one day hope I can pay you back.'

He wanted my name, and I gave it to him. Then I left him standing by the counter, so happy that I almost envied him ; and it was many years before I saw him again.

Last year I went to Europe on one of the finest vessels that ever ploughed the waters of the Atlantic. We had very beautiful weather until very near the end of the voyage ; then came a most terrible storm, that would have sunk all on board had it not been for the captain. Every spar was laid low, the rudder was almost useless, and a great leak had shown itself, threatening to fill the ship. The crew were all strong, willing men, and the mates were practical seamen of the first class; but after pumping for one whole night, and the water still gaining upon them, they gave up in despair, and prepared to take boats, though they might have known no small boat could ride such a sea. The captain, who had been below with his charts, now came up. He saw how matters stood, and with a voice that I heard distinctly above the roar of the tempest, ordered every man to his post.

It was surprising to see those men how to the strong will of their captain, and hurry back to the pumps. The captain then started below to examine the leak. As he passed me I asked if there was any hope. He looked at me and then at the other passengers, who had crowded up to hear the reply, and said rebukingly :

'Yes, sir, there is hope as long as one inch of this deck remains aboye the water ; then I shall abandon the vessel and not before ; nor one of my crew, sir. Everything shall be done to save it, and if we fail, it will not be from inaction. Bear a hand every one of you, at the pumps.'

Thrice during the day did we despair ; but the captain's dauntless courage, perseverance, and powerful will mastered every man on board and we went to work again.

'I will land you safely at the dock in Liverpool, said he, 'if you will be men.'

And he did land us safely ; but the yessel sunk moored to the dock. The captain stood on the deck of the sinking vessel, receiving the thanks and blessing of the passengers as they passed down the gang plank. As I passed he grasged my hand and said :

'Judge P——, do you recognize me ?'

I told him I was not aware that I ever saw him until I stepped abord his ship.'

'Do you remember the boy in Cincinnati ?'

'Very well, sir ; William Havely.'

'I am he,' said he. 'God bless you.'

'And God bless noble Captain Havely.'—Baptist Union.

Waiting for the Train.

Gentle reader, did you ever notice the man who is waiting for the train ?

He walks into the depot, and after wandering around and gazing at all the time-tablos, sits down with a sigh and begins to read his paper ; but before he has had time to read an item about a man being bitten to death by New Jersey mosquitoes, he is on his feet again. He hurries up to the ticket office and inquires : "Is there a train for New Haven at 11.30 ?'

'Yes, sir.'

Then he goes back to his seat again, but suddenly he looks up again at the clock, and hurries again to the ticket office with the inquiry, 'Is that clock right ?'

'Yes, sir.'

'Thanks.' Here he wanders out on the platform and walks up and down a few times, but the impulse is too strong and he again approaches the peddler of tickets.

'I suppose the train is on time, today ?'

'Yes, sir.'

'All right ; thank you.'

This time he goes to where he left his gripsack and paper and moves them to another seat, and having arranged them to his satisfaction he again nears the ticket window.

'Is that ice water in the cooler over there ?'

'Yes, sir.'

'Much obliged. You say the train is on time ?'

'Yes, sir.'

'And you're sure about the clock being right ?'

'Yes, sir.'

'There—is that my train coming in now ?'

'Yes, sir.'

'All right ; thanks.'

And then the patient ticket agent closes the window and sits down to wait for the next fiend who wants to take the train.

Not Used to Being Commanded.

Owing to the royal dinner party at Hurlingham on Saturday, the Prince of Wales was unable to be present at the debuts of Mrs. Mackintosh and Miss Steer. Apropos of the dinner, an amusing incident took place in the afternoon, which proves that our transatlantic cousins have much still to learn with regard to court etiquette. The Princess of Wales, having previously met and admired the recitation of the latest pretty American export, graciously requested her presence at dinner that evening, upon which the fair reciter expressed her regret at not being able to accept the honor offered her, urging as an excuse that she had promised to chaperon some young ladies to Mrs. Mackintosh's debut. Her Royal Highness replied, with a quiet smile of amusement : 'Then I am afraid you must get your friends to kindly excuse you, for I shall expect you,' and left the free-born American to discover that royal wishes in this country are commands.—London World.

SNAKES IN TROUBLE.

How an Old Farmer Cleaned Out an Army of Black Snakes.

Mr. Weller, residing about two miles south of Middleburg, at the foot of Shade Mountain, while engaged in clearing a piece of new ground on his farm on Thursday of last week, was terribly annoyed by the number of black snakes on the patch. Some he killed but a great many escaped his "brush fork," and nearly all ran in the direction of a large brush pile in the corner of the patch and close to a bank over a spring which was covered by a thick growth of underbrush. He concluded to investigate matters a little and it did not take him long to satisfy himself that he had struck a colony of the reptiles which had taken harbor under the pile of dry brush.

He noticed a particularly large one basking in the sun a few yards from the place, and he proceeded to get a rail from the fence with which to despatch it, but in doing so he broke one of the stakes on the fence. The noise caused by the breaking of the stake evidently aroused the sleeping reptiles, and he witnessed a perfectly volley of snakes darting from under the thick underbrush into the brush pile. He stood riveted to the spot with astonishment, and looking up saw no less than twenty snakes of all sizes stiking their heads out of the brush pile. Remembering that he used a bundle of long straw for a seat on his "stone boat," he hastened to get it, and setting it on fire cast it over the brush.

In an instant the whole pile was one blaze, and he then witnessed a scene which he says no one would ever care to behold again. The heat was so intense that none of the reptiles could possibly escape, and they rolled out of it black, blinded, and scorched, biting at everything they touched, and in most instances died with their fangs fastened in their own charred bodies—evidently preferring suicide to death in the flames. Some darted from the outside into the fire, madly striking at the flames, until their bright black coats had been turned into an ashen gray by the heat. In fifteen minutes a smoulding stump was all that was left of the brush pile. He was about to leave the spot, when he ventured to look into the stump, which was hollow, where, covered by a thin layer of ashes, lay no less than a bucketful of snakes, resembling huge sausages in a large crock, roasted just hard enough to cause the flesh to drop off.

Professional Nurses.

There is a fine, large, red brick building at the foot of East Twenty-sixth street and opposite Bellevue Hospital which is called the 'Training School for Nurses." The institution has been in existence several years, and it does a vast amount of good. It is under the charge of Mrs. S. Perkins, an attache of the Bellevue Hospital.

Women who desire to become trained or professional nurses must undergo in this institution a thorough course of training, which is confined to lectures and to practical work. Considerable care is taken in the selection of candidates for training. The women must be temperate, cool-headed and sympathetic, for frequently the very life of a patient will depend upon the judgment and kindness of the nurse in attendance. A cruel or careless nurse could undo all that a corps of the most distinguished physicians might do for a patient.

The time necessary to train a nurse for her duties depends largely upon her intelligence. Some would require a year's training, while others become proficient in far less than half that time. A giddy, frivolous, or nervous woman is altogether unfitted for the position, and no amount of training would bring her up to the required standard.

A large number of these trained nurses readily find places in hospitals, private and public asylums, nurseries and lying-in institutions. Their position is of the most trying character, and young women who want to get an easy living ought never become nurses.

Nurses must be prepared to work day or night, week day or Sunday. They are oppressed with a constant sense of responsibility, and there is hardly any bright side to their life unless the knowledge that they are doing good and relieving suffering serves to gladden their hearts. They are constant witnesses of disease, agony and death.—New York Journal.

George Hearst and the Drunkard.

Senator Hearst is not mean, on the contrary, he is generous with his money, but he is not in the habit of releasing his grip on a dollar until he knows where it is going. For instance :—

'Please, sir, will you assist a poor man who is out of work, and has a family depending upon him ?'

The inquiry was made by a fellow, who darted out of a dark doorway near the senator's newspaper office, one evening last winter.

The senator turned a watery eye on the beggar, saw his unshaven face, his shabby raiment, and unwashed, shaky hands.

'So you've got a family, have you ? Where d'ye live ?'

'Round on Pacific street, sir.'

'Go ahead and take me there. If you aint lyin' I'll do the square thing, pardner.'

The man had a family, sure enough. He showed the senator into a foul room in the third story of a rookery. There were three children, a decent looking woman and a sewing machine. The woman wept when questioned. They were very poor, and often hungry. All their troubles came from the drunkenness of the husband. The culprit sullenly owned to the truth of this statement.

'All right,' said Uncle George, rising.

He gave the woman a sum of money that made her speechless.

'Come along with me,' said Hearst to the husband, who obeyed with alacrity.

At the next corner the senator turned the amazed man over to a policeman.

'Bood this fellow for vagrancy,' said the philanthropist. 'I'll appear against him to-morrow. He's been striking me for a piece.'

'Now, you,' said Uncle George next day, when he had secured a sentence of three months for the loafer, 'if you have a mind to be decent when you get out, come to me and I'll give you a show.'

And the man, three months later, did come. Uncle George sent him and his family to one of his ranches, where, to do the fellow justice, he has avoided the bottle and behaved himself.

'I ain't opposed to drinkin,' the senator is given to remarking. 'If a man can afford it, all right ; but when he can't I go in for sendin' him to jail.'

How She Won Him.

'Confession seize all the houses, say I,' roared Squire Clingly, striding up and down his snug little library like a wild animal in its den. 'Taxes, repairs, insurance, and a 'to let' always hung up on the front door. I say, Foxwell, eh? What is it? A tenant for Rore Lodge?'

'A tenant, squire, responded Mr. Foxwell, the real estate agent, seating himself, 'Wishes to take possession tomorrow,' said Mr. Foxwell. 'Will pay $50 quarterly, in advance. Lease three to five years. Best of reference. A widow lady.'

'I suppose she must have it' said the squire. 'After a house has stood empty for three years I can't afford to stand on trivial objections. But there is one thing I want understood first—she must not expect me to call on her.'

'All right squire,' said Mr. Foxwell, carelessly.

'A red-faced virago of 40, I don't doubt,' muttered the squire to himself, 'who has nagged one husband into the other world and is on the lookout for another; I'll give her a wide birth.'

So Mrs. Applegate arrived with a boudour piano, a mimic aviary, a poodle, a whole conservatory of plants, and established herself in Rose Lodge without ever having looked upon the face of the landlord.

The squire had gone out one sultry July afternoon to see about the cutting down of some trees on the edge of the swamp, when he heard a little feeble cry for help from the adjoining pasture-field.

'Hello!' said the squire to himself ; 'what's up now?'

Scrambling over the wall, the squire came face to face with a pretty, pale-cheeked girl of 18 or 19, who was perched half-way up the stone-fence, in mortal terror of a huge and belligerent looking bull, who stood up in the middle of the field.

The squire burst out laughing.

'You silly child,' said he. Don't you see that he is tethered to the ground. He can't get away.'

She was very pretty, with curly rings and tendrills of silky hair, a complexion of clear olive, and dusky, glittering eyes!

'My dear,' said he, 'it's natural enough. But you shouldn't be out here alone by yourself. Tell your mother to take better care of you. Where do you live?'

'At Rose Lodge,' she faltered.

'I will walk home with you. What did you come out for—buttercups or butterflies?' he asked, good-humoredly.

'I came out for a little walk,' said she, shyly. 'I—I don't know who you are.'

'I am Mr. Clingly.'

'The squire?'

'Yes, so they call me. Why, what is there so strange about that?' he asked, noticing the quick change on her face.

'I've heard of the squire,' said the dark-eyed damsel· 'And I somehow formed the idea that he was cross and elderly. But you——' And here she checked herself in evident confusion.

'Well, I'm not young,' said the squire, laughing, 'and I can be cross. But you needn't be afraid, my child. I shall not be cross with you. Would you like to cross the high road through my rose gardens? I assure you that they are well worth looking at.

'Oh, indeed, I should be quite delighted!' said the young lady, her dimpled face lighting up all of a sudden.

'A pretty little creature,' said the squire, when his visitor had gone home with both hands full of gorgeous white and crimson blossoms. 'I really think I must call upon the Applegates. I never saw fairer eyes in my life, and she has a voice like a flute. Yes, I'll call ! I'll certainly call and see if there's anything more needs doing to make that rattle-trap of a place comfortable.'

'Well, squire,' said Mr. Foxwell, that afternoon when he came in for his usual chat, 'how do you like the widow?'

'The widow ! What widow?'

'Mrs. Applegate, to be sure.'

'I haven't seen Mrs. Applegate.'

'Why, yes you have!'

'I'll thank you not to contradict me,' the squire said, waxing choleric. 'I have not seen Mrs. Applegate.'

'Man alive!' cried out the agent, forgetting his respect in his eagerness, 'she was walking with you in the rose-garden this morning.'

The squire looked surprised.

'Mrs. Applegate! Was that pretty child Mrs. Applegate?'

'Herself, and none other.'

'Why, she isn't 18.'

'I beg your pardon, 18 years and 6 months. She told me so herself.'

'The deuce!' said the squire. 'Why what business has a widow to be so young and pretty! Well, anyhow, I'm going over to the lodge to call this afternoon.'

He was as good as his word.

Well, any reader of the great book of human nature can easily guess the rest. The squire had kept himself absolutely aloof from feminine society so long that the first relapse into it possessed all the zest and sparkle that he imagined had departed with his lost youth. Mrs. Applegate was pretty, alone, and poor. The squire was rich, not bad looking, and able to converse well. And so when their engagement was publicly made known in the autumn nobody was much surprised.

IT WAS NOT A SUCCESS.

An Experiment Which Was Not Entirely Satisfactory.

Just before Eckson and his wife started on their bridal tour, Eckson said :

'We want to show people that not all newly-married people are silly.'

'Yes, we do, Henry.'

'Now, when we get on the train, let us not pay any attention to each other.'

'All right.'

'We'll lean apart from each other and act as if we have been married for years, won't we?'

'Yes. O, I tell you what would be the funniest idea in the world, Henry. We'll take different seats, and after a while we'll get acquainted. Won't that be nice?'

'First-class; splendid.'

When they boarded the train they took opposite seats. Henry took up a newspaper, and Mollie looked at the wavering landscape. After a while Henry looked up and saw the conductor sitting with Mollie. Henry chuckled. 'Thinks she's in love with him, I reckon,' the bridegroom mused. 'Believe I'll go forward and take a smoke.' His cigar must have been unsatisfactory, for he soon threw it away and resumed his seat opposite his wife. The conductor was telling an amusing story, and Mollie was laughing gleefully. She did not even look at her husband.

'This is playing it a little too fine,' Henry mused. 'I like to see good acting, but she acts a little too well.'

The train stopped at a station, and the conductor got up and went out, but returned immediately and again sat down by Mollie. Just then a young woman came along and asked Henry if she could share his seat. He gladly consented, musing that he could play even with his wife. A few moments later, while he was busily talking, he saw, with a sweetened thrill of revenge, that his wife was looking at him. At the next station the young woman got off the train, and when the conductor went out Henry sat down by Mollie.

'I don't know what you want to sit down here for,' she snapped. 'Why didn't you get off the train with——'

'What do you want to talk that way for, precious?'

'Precious nothing! Go on; I don't want you here.'

'I suppose you would rather talk to the conductor?'

'I'd rather talk to anybody that will treat me with respect.'

'Now, darling—'

'Darling nothing. I'm going to get off the train and go home, that's what I'm going to do. I'm not going to live with you, that's what I ain't, and when pa asks me why, I'm going to tell him that you didn't treat me with respect. You don't love me, and never did. You used to let on like you did, but you don't even do that any more.'

'Mollie—'

'Mollie nothing. Go on, I don't want you here.'

'Now, don't be foolish. You know how you carried on with the conductor—never saw him before, either.'

'The mischief I haven't. He's my uncle. I was going to introduce you to him, but I didn't want him to know that we were married until just before we got off the train.'

'Mollie.'

'What?'

'Won't you forgive me?'

'I ought not to, you are so mean.'

'I was jealous and—'

'Jealous?'

'Yes.'

'I didn't know you loved me enough to be jealous.'

'But I do. Don't you love me just a little?'

'Yes, more than you do me.'

'No.'

'Yes.'

'No you don't, precious.'

'Yes I do, darling.'

'If these people were not looking I'd kiss you.'

Henry, after a short silence, remarked :

'It's none of their business.'

'Put your head on my shoulder. There.'

He put his arm around her, and, when he thought that no one was looking, kissed her.

'Do you love me?' she asked.

'I adore you.'

'You make me awful happy.'

'You will live with me, won't you?'

'Yes, always. We like the old fashioned bridal tour the best, don't we?'

'Yes.'

'And we don't care how many people are looking, do we?'

'No.'

'And if they don't like it they can get off the train, can't they?'

'Yes, and you will live with me, won't you?'

'I couldn't live without you.'

'I couldn't live without you, either.'

'Because you love me, don't you?'

'Yes, and because you love me, don't you?'

Just then a man got up, opened his valise, took out a piece of cake, handed it to Henry, and said :

'It's yours. Take it.'

'I don't want it.'

'But you have earned it.'

'I won't have it.'

The man threw the cake on the seat, and as he made a break for the forward car, said :

'That's the sickest bridal affair I ever saw, and I used to be a captain of a steamboat.'—Arkansaw Traveler.

An N. P. At A Type Case.

It is related of the second Mr. Walter, of the London Times, that in Spring of 1833 shortly after his return to Parliament as a member for Berkshire, he was at the Times office one day when an express arrived from Paris, bringing the speech of the King of the French on the opening of the Chambers. The express arrived at 10 A. M., after the day's impression of the paper had been published and the editors and the compositors had left the office. It was important that the speech should be published at once, and Mr. Walter immediately set to work upon it. He first translated the document ; then, assisted by one compositor, he took his place at the type case and set it up. To the amazement of the staff who dropped in about noon, he 'found Mr. Walter, M. P. for Berks, working in his shirt-sleeves.' The speech was set and printed, and the second edition was in the city by one o'clock. Had he not 'turned to' as he did, the whole expense of the express service would have been lost. And it is probable that there was not another man in the whole establishment who could have performed the double work—intellectual and physical—which he that day executed with his own head and hands.

A Very Moderate Fee.

The smallest fee on record was received by one of the Van Buren (Ark.) attorneys had some papers drawn up. When the work was finished he asked what the bill was. The man of law replied : 'Just what you think is right.' To his astonishment the man handed him a one and a two cent piece.

L. A. SHAFFER, Secretary. ADAM HOY, Chairman.

Democratic State Ticket.

For Governor—
CHAUNCEY F. BLACK, of York.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
R. BRUCE RICKETTS, of Luzerne.

For Auditor-General—
WILLIAM J. BRENNEN, of Allegheny.

For Secretary of Internal Affairs—
J. SIMPSON AFRICA, of Huntingdon.

For Congressman-at-Large—
MAXWELL STEVENSON, of Philadel.

Democratic County Ticket.

Representatives { JOHN A. WOODWARD, LEONARD RHONE.

Prothonotary—L. A. SHAFFER.

District Attorney—J. CALVIN MEYER.

Congress—HON. A. G. CURTIN, subject to the decision of the congressional district convention.

Senate—HON. P. GRAY MEEK, subject to the decision of the senatorial district convention.

BLACK is certainly a very popular candidate with the farmers and if republican politicians continue to insult the colored men as Quay did recently in Philadelphia there will be a large number of black fellows voting for BLACK.

THE rumor which was afloat this week that the island of Cuba should have disappeared from the face of the earth caused a great deal of anxious inquiry. But as none of the leading daily papers confirmed the report the matter simmered down to a hoax.

MAINE'S elections of a governor, four congressmen and a legislature, which took place last Monday resulted in the re-election of Bodwell for governor by a greatly reduced majority. The Republicans carried every congressional district and elected two-thirds of the Legislature. Nothing surprising about this result, the Pine Tree state simply stuck to its colors.

TAKING in consideration the whole combination of disadvantages which stare the Republican party in the face in this campaign we really can not see how they expect to pull through. There is that growing, rebellious Prohibition party, which expects to poll over 50,000 votes and take the greater number from the Republican party, because that is the party which sympathizes with the cold water cause; there is Beaver's unpleasant store order record and Col. Norris' talk at Gettysburg, and last but not least the offended and indignant colored voter. These are the principal obstructions in the race course of the Republican campaign which make Beaver's success in November exceedingly doubtful and brighten the chances of Black.

THE Republican county convention met at Bellefonte last week [Tuesday] and nominated J. G. Love, Esq., of Bellefonte, and G. G. Mattern, of Potter township, for the Legislature, Geo. M. Boal, of Potter township, for Prothonotary, J. H. Lichtenthaler, of Philipsburg, for District Attorney and Jesse Cleaver, of Unionville, for county surveyor. The convention also endorsed Col. Jas. P. Coburn, of Aaronsburg, for congress.

As to the merits of this ticket, as far as we know, nothing can be said against the nominees, but to say anything more for them would be folly for a democratic journal. A fact to be regretted however, is that all of them will be sacrificed upon the political altar in November, because the Democrats of Centre County are not ready to lose the day and do not propose to let the Republicans beat them.

Boss Quay sat down ugly on the colored voters of Philadelphia the other day. The Seventh Ward of that city, which is strongly populated by the dusky race, wish to run one of their number, a Mr. Gipson, for the legislature, and at the republican ward meeting appointed a committee of colored gentlemen to wait upon Colonel Quay and enlist his influence for Gipson. At republican headquarters they were told Quay had just gone out for a few minutes and were invited to take seats on the stairs. They waited for over an hour and finally went away disgusted and bitterly feeling the insult. It is plain that boss Quay and the rest of republican ringsters do not want colored men in office. All they want are their votes. But treatment of this kind will be apt to turn the despised colored voter and make him look around for a party that will give him a more gentlemanly reception. The following remarks made by a prominent colored man who was a member of the ill-treated committee gives the sentiment of the Philadelphia colored voter and it wouldn't be any wonder if their brethren all over the state would take up the strain and proclaim war on the party they have supported but which now abuses them:

"We don't propose to beg nor ask favors of any party, but such action as was taken hy Appraiser Baker only confirms the idea that the Democratic party does more honorable and stands by more openly toward the colored man than does the Republican party. The party will see when it is too late, that the colored man will go where he is treated the better. This committee went to confer as representatives of the race, and for the general interests of the race and not particularly as to the especial representation, and should have been treated as gentlemen. We do not believe in asking favors when it is in our power to demand; we are just in that position, and the second of November will tell the colored voter is no child. We desire it understood that this insult will be resented at the polls, we are tools no longer, but men."

The Labor Interests and Democracy.

Signs multiply that the labor interests of the State this year sympathize with the cause of the Democracy in Pennsylvania. For example Thomas A. Armstrong's National Labor Tribune of Pittsburg says:

We would respectfully but urgently suggest to the Republicans in those States in which the fall conventions have not been held that they brush up their intellects, if they have any, and put their best foot forward, if both be not too far gone in lameness, and take the brilliant hint the Democrats of Pennsylvania have recently given. For it is patent from the results of the Harrisburg convention of August 18th, that political management has taken upon itself a tendency toward progression, which to ignore will leave the party thus negligent a painful distance in the lurch. We have no hesitation in asserting that that convention is as far in advance of contemporary conventions, in the selection of men and the formulating of measures, as were the Republican conventions of twenty-five years ago ahead in wisdom and honesty of the average Republican convention of to-day.

Cut out the very proper complimentary mention of the distinguished members of the party recently deceased, and the usual commendatory references to the national and State administrations, and the platform is brief and energetic. The dead wood of the conventional platform, which has so long been a sickening evidence of the insincerity of such instruments, is notable for its absence. On the other hand, the convention puts the party in trim for combat on the railroad discrimination issues, the same which the Republican convention declined to touch. As tersely as though old Judge 'Jere' Black himself had turned out of heaven on this third anniversary of his death to dictate it, this resolution says in plainest terms that the fight is for the enforcement of the constitution relating to railroads and other corporations.

In the selection of the ticket the convention undoubtedly did wisely. Mr. Black is the son of Judge Jere. Black, and a man of fine abilities and unquestioned honesty. The offer of the Auditor-Generalship to Mr. Weihe, the president of the A. A. of I. and S. W., was in the line of brilliant management characteristic of the occasion, and no less so was the nomination of W. J. Brennen upon Mr. Weihe's declination, inasmuch as that gentleman has deservedly many friends, more especially among the miners, numbers of whom he has defended without charge during the last three years in various conspiracy prosecutions. The nomination of Maxwell Stevenson may also be regarded as a happy hit. Take it all in all, the 'Dems' have swung around laborwards to an extent heretofore unknown to the old parties. Justice impels us to say that they have succeeded surprisingly on this round, and we can fancy only one other party that will excel it in platform and ticket; meaning, of course, the Greenback-Labor party."

IN TIME OF PEACE PREPARE FOR PEACE.—Changes of climate, diet and water, ofttimes atmospheric changes alone, will subject some member of the family to cholera morbus, dysentery, &c., when that wail of misery in the "wee sma' hours of the night" announce the fact, and you are sent from your comfortable bed across lots or down back alleys for a doctor, 'twould be a good time to reflect that had you only secured a bottle of Curtis' Carmelite Cordial in time, you could with a few drops have headed off the attack, saved a doctor's bill, and secured a peaceful night's rest. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

Miscellaneous News.

Railroad Disaster.

Fourteen persons were killed and thirteen injured by the collision of a Niagara Falls excursion train and a local freight on the Nickel Plate road, N. Y. on Tuesday. The accident was the result of a misunderstanding of orders.

Death of James P. Barr.

PITTSBURG, September 14.—James P. Barr, senior proprietor of the Pittsburg Post, and one of the most prominent Democrats in Western Pennsylvania, died this afternoon after a lingering illness. He was 61 years of age.

Saved His Life.

Mr. D. L. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, badly afflicted with Phthisic, also Diabetes; the pains were almost unendurable and would sometimes almost throw him into convulsions. He tried Electric Bitters and got relief from first bottle and after taking six bottles, was entirely cured, and had gained in flesh eighteen pounds. Says he positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by J. Eisenhuth.

A Girl Burned to Death.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 12.—Annie Renner, aged 11 years, met with a fatal accident yesterday morning. She was playing with a number of boys who had built a bonfire in the street, and, her clothes igniting, burned her into a crisp from head to foot. She died a few hours later.

—Jas. R. Irwin, druggist, Curwinsville, Pa., writes:
'J. A. McDonald, DEAR SIR:—Send us ½ gross of your Worm Powders—they give good satisfaction to our trade. Professionally, I always recommend them, as I consider they embody to the utmost the principal and most desirable points in a vermifuge—smallness of dose, easiness to take, compactness and eligance, while our steadily increasing sales attest their value as a worm destroyer and the satisfaction they give our trade.'
Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

Hon. James H. Hopkins Interviewed

PITTSBURG, Sept. 12.—Hon. James H. Hopkins submitted to a brief interview here yesterday. Among other things he said: "I think that Black's chances for Governor are better than Beaver's, as the Prohibition party will probably poll 50,000 to 60,000 votes, a large portion of which will come from the Republican party. I was in York, and with Black, last week. He is receiving many encouraging letters from all parts of the State, and will have a large Republican vote in his own county. Such wealthy men as the Smalls and Mr. Farquhar, the large manufacturers of agricultural implements, have delared for him because they know him well. I think we will have 5,000 majority in that county and 15,000 to 20,000 in the State." Mr. Hopkins says he will take an active part in the campaign, having placed himself at the disposal of Chairman Hensel.

The Milton Fair.

The second annual exhibition of the Milton Driving Park and Fair Association will open on Wednesday, Sept. 29th and continue four days. The management are putting forth every effort to make it a grand success in every respect. The premium list has been revised and enlarged, many additions having been made thereto. Many new features have been adopted and in addition to the exhibits of agricultural, horticultural and mechanical products, a number of choice attractions have been secured. The sum total of premiums announced aggregates over five thousand dollars, of which about one thousand will be paid for trials of speed. Already many noted horsemen have signified their intention of being present to enter the contest, and some fine trials of speed may be expected. Taken all in all, the coming exhibition promises not only to be the largest, but the finest ever held in this part of the State. Excursion rates over all railroads running to Milton. The trains of the Pennsylvania railroad stop at the grounds.

—As the fall season is advancing we are prepared to supply our many customers with Flannels, Cotton Flannels, Yarns, &c. at the usual low prices.
D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Among the improvements going on in town at this time are the well which A. J. Harter is digging on his premises on Penn street and the stone-walk P. S. Meyer is having constructed in his front yard.

—The new barn on J. H. Reifsnyder's farm, west of Millheim, was raised on Tuesday and quite a crowd of people were out from town to assist in the work and share some of the fun incident to such raisings.

—J. Eisenhuth informs the public that he has added to his drug stock the celebrated KEYSTONE MALT WHISKEY and other pure liquors. Sold only on prescriptions of physicians, for medical use. 33-6m.

—Some of our citizens are making preparations to lay in their winter coal, W. J. Springer had a very attractive little building put up in his front yard for that purpose. Jake believes in beautifying the town, ahem.

—The framework of the new steeple of the Methodist church is towering high in the air and promises to compare well with the others. The repairs about other parts of the church edifice are also progressing nicely.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure and get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free at J. Eisenhuth's Drug Store.

—Mrs. Sarah Zeigler desires us to announce that in connection with her bakery on Penn street she conducts a first-class eating house, where good meals can be had at any time and at very reasonable rates.

NOTICE.—Harry Cohen, of the New York cheap store, wishes to give notice that he will not open the store before the 15th of October, on account of the Jewish holidays which fall in the first and second week of October.

—The band boys have concluded to sell oysters at their festival next Saturday. This makes variety enough to suit everybody. Ice cream for the warm-blooded, and a hot stew of oysters for the chilly. Don't fail to be there.

—Last Friday County Superintendent Wolf examined the teachers for Penn township and Millheim borough in this place. We hear that the majority of the teachers stood the examination well and received fair certificates.

—Read the new stove and tinware advertisement of Jacob Eisenhuth, appearing elsewhere in this week's JOURNAL. He has in his employ Mr. D. I. Brown, a first class mechanic, and is prepared at all times to fill orders for spouting.

—J. F. Gilbert & Co., the merchant tailors from Millersburg, Pa., are at present stopping at the Musser House and will remain in town until Saturday. They will be glad to receive orders for suits during their stay, and guarantee satisfaction.

AND STILL THEY COME.—The Clymer family, that celebrated juvenile cornet band, are billed for Millheim, to-morrow (Friday) evening in the town hall. As our people know the merits of this company, no favorable comments are necessary.

CARD OF THANKS.—The U. B. All-workers Society of Millheim return their sincere thanks to all those who kindly donated toward the festival. Also to a generous public for their liberal patronage.
By order of the Committee.

—Miss Nammie Britt, of Wheeling, West Va., and Miss Puella E. Dornblaser, of Clintondale, Pa., passed through town on Monday on their way to John Bright's at Aaronsburg. They stopped a few hours at "Brookdale," D. O. Deininger's residence.

—Abs. Harter publishes the sale of his property on Main street, as well as his timberland near Aaronsburg and also personal property consisting of two ponies, two hogs, spring wagons, grain cradles, harness, and household furniture. The sale to take place Saturday, Sept. 18. Read bills.

TAKE NOTICE.—I would hereby kindly give notice to all concerned that my sale notes, which are due on the 19th instant, are left at the Millheim Bank for collection, and if not paid on or soon after maturity, will be placed into the hands of a collector.
C. F. DEININGER.

—Bellefonte expects to have a new banking house. Several gentlemen connected with the Bellefonte Iron Company, among them E. M. Blanchard, Esq., and Mr. Jamison, of Philadelphia, will be the members of the company. The Daily News says that Hon. Jas. P. Coburn is mentioned as the cashier of the institution.

—A look at our advertising columns on the second page will tell our readers that Millheim will get a new store by the first of next month. Mr. Cohen, who some time ago sold fancy Dry Goods and Notions in Sankey's building, will locate permanently and occupy the storeroom on the corner of Main and Penn street, at present Musser & Smith's hardware.

—Sam. Ulrich's mad cow created quite an excitement on Penn street last Friday forenoon. She would not be driven to the slaughter house and became so infuriated that for quite a while she prevented everybody from approaching or passing her. At last a few of our pluckier men pelted her with all kinds of missiles and succeeded in driving her out of town and back to Coburn.

—Many of our young gents (?) are in the habit of running in and out of our churches during services and of course in most cases make all the noise possible. This sort of disturbance should be stopped. If they are not willing to pay the respect due the minister and congregation and attend services without transgressing the rules of the house of God and of civilized society we for one suggest that they be made to do so.

ANOTHER ENTERPRISE.—Millheim experiences quite a boom at present in the line of new enterprises. The latest is a hennery an Penn street by Jerome Spigelmyer. He will during the coming winter raise chickens by incubation and expects to run the business on a large scale. As there is always a good demand in the market for early spring chickens, this industry will be a paying one.

—It does beat all what a time they expect to have at the Lewisburg Fair next week. We learn that the owners of several horses having a record below 2.25 have notified the managers that they would enter for the $500 purse on Saturday the 25th. That will be the kind of trotting seldom seen in the county but which we read about in the city papers. Boys, it will not do to miss that, only $1.00 from Coburn and return by special train. It's going to be a daisy.

—One who was there informs us that the entertainment recently given at Rebersburg by the Misses Shafer, of Reading, was excellent in all its parts. Bertie, the youngest of the sisters, is pronounced a fine elecutionist and her performances were highly appreciated and enjoyed by her hearers, while Katie greatly delighted her audience with her comic recitations. Both the young ladies are sure to gain public favor whereever they go.

—Typhoid, Scarlet and Yellow Fevers, Measles, Diphtheria, Small-pox, Cholera, &c. — Darbys Prophylactic Fluid will destroy the infection of all fevers and all contagious and infectious diseases. Will keep the atmosphere of any sick-room pure and wholesome, absorbing and destroying unhealthy effluvia and contagion resulting therefrom. Will neutralize any bad smell whatever, not by disguising it, but by destroying it.

Use Darbys Prophylactic Fluid in every sick-room.

—J. W. Snook bought the farm of the late Christ. Behm, southeast of town, at public sale last Saturday, at $70 per acre. The mountain land situate in Haines township, and belonging to said farm, he purchased at $136 per acre.

—Our school directors have engaged the teachers for the ensuing winter term. Mr. Keller, who has been teaching two subscription terms during this summer, will take charge of the grammar department, and M. C. Gephart, one of our own young men gets the primary school. The North street school will be taught by D. G. Smith. The Borough schools will begin on the 4th of October.

WHAT MORE CAN YOU WANT.—The Centre Hall Reporter of last week in referring to the enterprises which are springing up in the different towns around them, says that Centre Hall could also stand a boom of that kind. Brother Kurtz forgets that Centre Hall is just establishing a second newspaper, an enterprise that surely augurs progress and increase in business. Neither Millheim nor Spring Mills can boast of the like and are consequently not as fortunate as Centre Hall.

—The borough schools are likely to be very much crowded this winter, a fact that is to be greatly deplored. Our school rooms are rather defective, affording very poor ventilation and when well filled with children are anything but healthy. Besides, the teachers are hardly able to do justice to a school numbering from 75 to 90 scholars and we think it would have been policy to have a fourth school and thus distribute the work more evenly. We hope our directors will make this necessary change before another year passes.

—Negotiations for the establishment of the knitting factory are progressing quietly, but as we are assured by members of the committee who have the matter in hand are on a safe way to a final settlement. We think in another week the project will have sufficient backbone to proceed with business.

LATER.—Messrs. J. S. and J. K. Crawford, arrived in last evening's train and a meeting of the stockholders was at once appointed for 7 o'clock last night. As we went to press about that time we are unable to give the result in this weeks issue.

MULTUM IN PARVO.—McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparilla Alterative is the most highly concentrated, most harmoniously and skilfully combined of all the blood medicines offered to the public. Many certificates from well-known and worthy persons could be furnished to substantiate the virtues claimed for this great medicine, but the manufacturer prefers simply to say any purchaser feeling the benefit derived from the use of a bottle not equivalent to the seventy-five cents invested in the purchase can have their money refunded.

—The picnic at Penn's Cave last Saturday was not as largely attended as was anticipated. The fact is there were too many of the farmers and the people in general at the Granger's Picnic at William's Grove and the reunion at Lewisburg. Nevertheless a pleasant time was had and both the bands as well as many of the picnicers took a trip through the caves. As usual Mr. Long, the proprietor of the Cave did everythiug to make the visitors feel at home on his premises. The day was very pleasant, the air being cool and bracing and those that were there certainly enjoyed themselves.

—A. G. Heckman, of Seville, Ohio, in his letter in which he renews his subscription to the JOURNAL, adds the following items of news: "Very dry and hot here. Wheat a fair crop, corn about half a crop, potatoes pretty fair. Fruit simply immense. No sale for apples. Peaches, pears and plums, cheap. The late earthquake called at Seville, but no damage was done and nobody hurt. Saloons all closed under the Dow law. This is as it should be—the liquor traffic is the great curse of our country. I was glad to see in your paper that your Hon. Judge of Court granted but few licenses."

—Shortly before noon on last Thursday the cry of "fire" went through town and was discovered to be at Elias Lose and Son's planing mill. The roof of the building had caught fire which by the prompt action of several men was extinguished before it had a chance to spread. The Hook & Ladder boys had their apparatus on the ground in a very short time, but nothing but their buckets were brought into actiue service. It was a bad day for a fire, most of the male population of town being in Lewisburg, the weather exceedingly hot and the water very scarce.

—The following notes from the hunting and fishing laws are seasonable reading for the sportsmen: Turkeys, October 15th to January 1st. Ducks, September 1st to May 1st. Plover, July 15th to January 1st. Woodcock, July 4th to January 1st. Patridges or Quail, October 15th to January 1st. Rail and reed birds, September 1st to December 1st. Elk and deer, October 1st to December 15th. Squirrels, September 1st to January 1st. Hares and rabbits, November 1st to January 1st. Salmon or speckled trout, April 15th to July 15th. Lake trout, October 1st to January 1st. Black bass, pike and pickerel, June 1st to January 1st. Penalties for infringements, $5 to $50.

—Grand Army Day at Lewisburg last Thursday is reported as most successful and pleasant. The town was lively with people early in the morning and as the long trains carrying soldiers from all sections of the state arrived the throng became greater every hour. A splendid lunch was seryed in the Armory and then came the grand street parade. Sixteen bands, eight drum corps and a small army of veterans were in line and made an imposing display. At 4.30 in the afternoon Mr. C. K. Sober gave an exhibition in rapid shooting, the score of which will be found in another column. About six o'clock in the evening Meyer's Rescue band of Shamokin gave a grand concert which was greatly enjoyed by all who listened to it. The camp fire at 7.30 was lighted in the large tent which was packed with people. Fine addresses were delivered there by Hon. A. G. Curtin, Bellefonte, Col. A. Wilson Norris, P. D. Com. Austin Curtin, and others. Lewisburg was richly decorated and its post and citizens had labored hard to give the visitors the best accommodations. Everybody returned to their homes satisfied that they had spent a very pleasant day.

—Miss Mable M. Musser, the oldest daughter of our townsman, S. D. Musser, and one of our most charming young ladies, left Millheim on Tuesday morning for Lutheryille, Md., to finish her education in a Female Seminary at that place. Her companions will learn with regret that they will lose her for the greater part of two years. The Lutheran church and Sunday school, of which she is a member will miss her much. She filled the position of organist very creditably for nearly two years, during which time she was at her post with notemorthy punctuality. Miss Mable is a very bright young lady and with the superior advantages offered in a good seminary will no doubt cultivate her natural talents and return highly educated. The best wishes of Mable's many friends accompany her.

Miss Rhone, daughter of Leouard Rhone, Esq., Miss Sankey, daughrer of Henry Sankey; Miss Smith, daughter of Isaac P. Smith; Miss Mingle, daughter of Wm. B. Mingle; and Miss Boal daughter of George M. Boal, all of Cenare Hall, also left for the same seminary on Tuesday morning.

FAIRVIEW CEMETERY.—A Card to the Public: At the instance of the Direction of Fairview Cemetery the undersigned Superintendent comes before the public with the following statement and information:

A burial place of ample capacity for the future, well regulated, has been for years a pressing and growing necessity in this community. This point is so obvious that argument or explanation in the premises are not deemed necessary. The Direction of Fairview have, at heavy expenses, opened to the public a cemetery which for beauty of location, extent, convenient access and good substantial fencing, is hardly second to any other in this part of the state. Other and continued improvements, such as the planting of shade trees, along the front and principal drive, the macadamizing of roads, &c., are intended, and will be made as soon and as fast as the funds will permit. The Rules and Regulations, it is believed, while very liberal will fully cover every contingency and insure the good management and order of the cemetery.

It now remains for the public to second the work of the Direction, in order to insure the success of the enterprise, by purchasing family plots. The prices of these are as yet very low, in fact hardly half what they are sold for in other cemeteries of this class. For example a plot of 10 by 14 feet is rated at $7 to $8; 10 by 20 feet, $10 to $15, according to location.

It is manifest in view of the heavy expenditures already incurred and of others soon to follow, that these prices cannot long remain at the present low figures, wherefore persons intending to buy would do well to apply soon.

For further information please call on
A. C. MUSSER,
Superintendent.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS.—At a joint meeting of the St. John's Ev. Lutheran Church and the officers of the Lutheran Sunday School, at Millheim, Pa., held Sept. 12th, 1886, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously passed:

WHEREAS our efficient organist and esteemed sister, Miss Mabel M. Musser, is about to leave our midst to enter Lutherville Female Seminary, therefore

Resolved, that in behalf of the congregation and Sunday School, we hereby express our deep appreciation and tender our sincere thanks to Miss Musser for her faithful and gratuitous services as organist.

Resolved, that we bear cheerful testimony to the excellent character and good reputation of Miss Musser, and commend her to the christian courtesy and kindness of her future teachers, schoolmates and associates.

Resolved, that these proceedings be entered upon the minutes of the school and be published in the Millheim Journal, and a copy thereof sent to Miss Musser. A. J. HARTER,
J. H. B HARTMAN, Chairman
Secretary.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.—From the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of St. Peter's Ev. Lutheran Church, Reberburg, Pa.

WHEREAS God in his all wise providence has for the first time sent death into our circle and removed our beloved sister, Mrs. Sallie Frank, one of our most faithful workers in the cause: Therefore

Resolved, that while we mourn our loss, we bow submissively to the will of our Heavenly Father, believing that he doeth all things well.

Resolved, that we cherish the memory of our deceased sister and will imitate her example of Christian life and consecration to the service of the master. We lament her absence from our society, from the church and prayer meeting from the Sabbath school, and from the community in which she lived, but we mourn not as those who have no hope, knowing that our loss is her eternal gain.

Resolved, that we extend to the bereaved family our warmest sympathies, commending them to their Heavenly Father's care.

Resolved, that our feelings as set forth in the resolutions be recorded on our minutes. That our room be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, and that each member of the society shall wear a badge of mourning for the same length of time. That a copy be sent to the husband of the deceased sister, and that they be published in the Lutheran Observer, and one of our county papers.

Neighboring News.

SMITH TOWN.

A very welcome rain on Sunday.

The farmers are cutting corn.

A number of Smith towners took in the cave picnic last Saturday. The Millheim band on their return home treated our town to some choice music. Thanks.

Philip Musser commenced trading with hardly anything and kept on until now he is in possession of a horse, buggy and harness. It takes shrewd tradino to do that.

J. H. Frank dug a cistern last week. He is tired of the water fights.

The Confer boys visited their home in Brushvalley over Sunday.

Mrs. John Henney, of Freeport, Ill., was a guest at John Kern's house last week.

Charles Gutelius, of Mifflinburg, was here and sold one of his best spring wagons to W. F. Smith.

Mrs. Mary Smith has returned from Madisonburg, where she was visiting, and is now staying at John Kimports.

J. B. Smith bought two cows.

Miss Kimport and Mrs. Slack, from the Loop, both sisters of Mr. David Kimport were here on a visit.

Our squire took a flying trip to Adamsburg on Monday, on business.

Henry Keen, our horse dealer, bought five fine horses.

On Tuesday J. H. Reifsnyder's new barn was raised. Between 60 and 70 men were on duty and from what we heard it seems to take some very high language to raise a barn. JUMBO.

COBURN.

Squire Gettig has been appointed storekeeper at the new distillery.

The steam thresher is at work in this vicinity at present threshing for Sam'l. Ulrich.

The creek is very low at present and lots of filth and rubbish in the dam which is unhealthy and likely to cause sickness.

We had quite a nice and much needed rain on Sunday last.

The G. A. R. day at Lewisburg last Thursday was a success. The town was filled from one end to the other. 125 tickets were sold at our station.

Mr. H. H. Trumpfheller who was lately in the store business here is a candidate on the prohibition ticket for congress.

There is some talk of an excursion to Lemont on Saturday next on account of the G. A. R.

We agree with you, Mr. Editor, it would be a fine thing to get up a picnic to the Lewisburg fair ground during the fair. The railroad company will certainly put the fare at a reasonable figure and there is no doubt a large crowd would take advantage of it and have a regular old-fashioned basket picnic. Let's hear from others on the subject and see what can be done.
VALE.

AARONSBURG.

J. C. Meyer, Esq., of Bellefonte, was down to look up his friends.

Rev. Iry, (Baptist), occupied the pulpit in the new Ref. church last Sunday morning.

H. H. Weaver is off to York State for another lot of Holstein cattle. Henry says its no partnership deal this time.

J. C. Rote and family, from Bellefonte, are visiting the gentleman's mother, Mrs. Simon Rote.

Miss Katie Musser went to Warren, Trumbull Co., Ohio, to attend school, instead of Oberlin, Ohio, as mentioned in a former correspondence.

John Hartman and Chas. Albright, representing the Millheim band, were canvassing our town soliciting help for their festiyal to be held next Saturday.

Prof. Bierly, of Brushyalley, was in town last week. This means another Aaronsburg singing class for this fall and we hope a large class will be organized.

The rain on last Sunday afternoon caused a scattering in the bush meeting which was held near Woodward. A few of our town people attended the meeting.

Thos. Harper, the Spring Mills Creamery's best man for Haines township, distributed a wagon load of milk cans among his customers in and about town.

John Behm, formerly of Penn township, but now of Michigan, was the guest of Chas. Stover one day last week.

Miss Mary Huston, from Clearfield, is visiting her uncle, Jas. P. Coburn.

On last Monday two of Mr. B. F. Detwiler's daughters, Lulu, about 4 years old and Anna, about 12 years old, were engaged in examining or playing with a feed cutting machine in their father's barn, and while the machine was running both girls got their two fingers between the cog wheels of the machine and had them badly mashed. Children should not be allowed to play with such machinery.

Teachers' examination was held on last Saturday, and the following are the teachers selected for Haines township: School No. 1, Aaronsburg—D. Foreman. No. 2—B. F. Edmunds. No. 3—Miss Mary Bollinger. Wolf's school—Wm. Keen. St. Paul's not supplied. Woodward—N. W. Spangler. Vonada school—Wm. Winkleblech. Pine Creek school—Z. D. Thomas. Mountain or Cassler's school—Ad. Martin. Haines township schools will commence on the 18th of Oct. next. ANOTHER.

MADISONBURG.

Our farmers have finished sowing their wheat and a good many have commenced to cut corn.

Many of our people are making arrangements to attend the Granger's picnic on top of Nittany Mountain on Thursday.

Prof. A. Bierly, of New York, spent a few days here last week and gave the town a canvass for the purpose of raising a class in vocal music. Hope he will be successful.

Mr. Simon Smull died on Sunday morning at 4.30 o'clock and was buried on Tuesday forenoon in the Union cemetery. He leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his loss.

Director Rossman, in Gregg township, has carpenters at work repairing Yearick's school house, 2 miles west of this town. A new roof, weather boarding, new plastering and new seats are the improvements.
STILL ANOTHER.

—With your next order to your grocer, send for a sample pound of Dreydoppel's Borax Soap. You will find it to be the best and cheapest soap you ever used. It is used by the best families in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

SPRING MILLS.

Geo. Mertz, the hack driver for J. W. Bibby, had a break-down one day last week while on his way from the depot to the hotel.

C. A. Weaver, of Aaronsburg, was seen in town one day last week.

Maj. J. B. Fisher has gone to Minneapolis, Minn., to attend the Miller's National Convention, of which he is a prominent member.

H. G. Shafer has a fine pair of Texas ponies which he is training for the harness. No doubt he will have fine drivers after they are fully broken to the service.

REBERSBURG.

The late rains were needed very much, as the ground was hard and dry.

Lewis Bierly and his brother Harvey have contracted to chop a large amount of cord wood for J. W. Snook.

Wm. Kreamer sold two fine horses and received a snug sum of money for them.

Sheriff Royer, of near Wolf's store, is very anxious to find out who put those stones in his buggy box, and which he had been hauling around at least ten days before he ever discovered it. Well Sheriff, it must have been the boys.

John Wate left for for Spring Mills this week to take a clerkship in Spigelmyer's store.

Mr. Shrack, of Tylersville, spent last Saturday and Sunday among relatives in this vicinity.

Those who attended the cave picnic on last Saturday report a good time. The weather was indeed very favorable for the occasion.

Geo. Crouse is our champion squirrel hunter, having brought down nine in less than two hours. Each one was beheaded by his bullets which is sufficient proof of his superior marksmanship.

Charles Haines has the agency for a patent safety line holder. Charley no doubt will make a good agent and we wish him success.

A party which had gone to the Narrows last Thursday for "Golden-Rod" tea said to grow abundantly there, returned in the evening disappointed. They report the tea scarce but the huckle berries plenty.

The citizens of Kreamerville have dropped the school house question and we hear that some of them favor a third grade school in our burg. This will necessitate a new school building which it is thought will be erected on the vacant school lot south of town.

John Klinefelter, of Millheim, is at present engaged in painting the interior of Jno. Spangler's remodeled house.

Forest Leitzell, of Mifflinburg, is at present here on a visit to his father, Mr. Aaron Leitzell.

On last Sunday morning the Lutheran church bell tolled and upon inquiry we were informed that it was for Simon Smull, of Madisonburg, aged 44 years. Mr. Smull was in former years a resident of this part of the valley and was much esteemed. SQUIBOB.

TRAPPING A DUDE.

How a Plucky and Fun-Loving Lady Avenged a Masher's Advances.

One of the lady attendants in the insane department of the county jail was returning unattended from church about nine o'clock last Sunday night, when at the corner of Dearborn avenue and Kinzie street, she was accosted by a creature in tight pants.

'Can I see you home?' softly breathed the thing, lifting his hat and bowing profoundly.

The lady, who is full of resources, quickly recovered from the first start at the unexpected insult and gave her consent. Her destination lay a block away, and her escort beguiled the short journey with many an apt reflection upon the weather and sundry weighty topics. Now, the Dearborn avenue side of the jail building looks more like a residence than a public institution, and the iron stairs which lead to the entrance might easily be mistaken in the dark for the front stoop of a dwelling. The young man made the mistake, and, although the lady produced a bunch of uncommonly heavy keys, and the ponderous bolts flew back with a rattle and ring, he did not correct the error with himself until he had followed her fairly within the building and the door swiftly closed behind him. Curled up on a bench lay a muscular young man, who is slightly demented, so that when the lady whispered: 'Catch him, John,' the lunatic leaped to his feet with a fiendish shriek and made a rush for the intruder. The dude lifted a howl of terror and started around the quadrangular corridor which skirts the cells. At this juncture two of the male attendants who had been enjoying the night on the outside, rushed in. Before they had time to close the door the terrified young man dashed by them, and, pitching himself headlong down the stairs ran into the jail court. Thinking that one of the patients was escaping, the men gave chase, and were promptly reinforced by deputies from the jail and watchmen from the criminal court. Around and around the small yard the unfortunate young man ran like a rat in a barrel until gaining the stairs to the court building he upset one of the deputies and ran out upon Michigan street and vanished in the darkness. The avenged lady smiled and the captive lunatic, who is fantastic but harmless, chuckled softly as he went back to his bench.

He Mesmerized Her.

'Do you believe in mesmerism?' shyly asked a sweet young maid, who will graduate from the Somerville High School next summer, of a young Harvard Sophomore whom she had met at Mt. Desert.

'Certainly, I do,' replied the young man promptly. 'I can mesmerize people myself.'

'Oh, I don't belive it,' said the shy girl, incredulously. 'You couldn't mesmerize me, now, could you?'

'Well, I could try,' said the young many, confidently, leaning toward her in the moonlight.

And she acknowledged to her dearest friend the next day that she did experience a sort of a queer tingling sensation about her lips something like a mesmeric shock.—Somerville Journal.

'I don't suppose you know what hard times are,' said a man to one of the house servants of the Baroness Rothchild in Paris.

'Oh, yes, we do; for it was only this morning that I saw the baroness and her daughter playing on the piano.'
